Terms of use

Your admission to a performance is also subject to the venue's terms and conditions. If the amount you pay for a ticket is incorrect, Sydney Dance Company ("SDC") may cancel the ticket (or the order for a ticket) and refund to you the amount you paid. This applies regardless of whether the error arose due to an error in a price communicated to you; the release of orders or tickets that were not supposed to have been released for sale; or human error or a transactional malfunction of a SDC operated system. If SDC cancels a ticket, it may offer a replacement ticket to you at the most recent correct price for that ticket. Refunds for performance tickets are payable in accordance with the Live Performance Australia Ticketing Code of Practice - Consumer Code. Exchanges for performance tickets or the re-placement of lost, stolen or missing tickets may be permitted under certain conditions, but additional fees may apply. SDC reserves the right to refuse sale of tickets to its performances or withdraw any tickets from sale. Latecomers may only be admitted to a performance during a suitable break, which could be the first interval (if an interval is scheduled). In some cases, latecomers may not be admitted at all. Where allocated seating is applicable, seat reservation for tickets purchased via SDC are on a "best available" basis. Where concession tickets are purchased, suitable identification must be presented upon collection of the tickets. Artists may be added, withdrawn or substituted for performances and the right to vary prices, venues, seating arrangements and audience capacity is reserved. Camera, video and audio recorders may not be used inside any venue of a performance, unless expressly authorised by the venue. SDC reserves the right to broadcast or telecast any performance or event with or without notice to audience members. Ticket holders enter the venue at their own risk. SDC will not be responsible for any loss, damage or injury arising from a pre-existing medical condition or due to breach of these Terms of Use. Purchased tickets may not, without the prior written consent of SDC, be resold for commercial packages or at a premium, nor may they be packaged or used for advertising, promotional or other commercial purposes. If a ticket is sold in breach of these Terms of Use, the bearer of the ticket may be refused admission, subject to the discretion of SDC. Tickets are only valid when purchased through an authorised agent. Sydney Dance Company reserves the right to cancel any ticket distributed in breach of this condition without refund.
